WHO AM I?

I'm a recent Master's graduate in computer science and a Bachelor's graduate in linguistics at the University of Chicago. I have professional experience in backend, frontend, and mobile development. I have also taken masters classes in functional programming, iOS development, and application security. Some of my favorite things are: generative semantics and syntax, systems programming, and Star Trek.

EXPERIENCE

- 2017 – Present Software Engineering Intern The Tuesday Company
Full stack development intern working on feature development including: a react native application for Android and iOS, a react.js dashboard for content management, setup and migration of a MySQL database, and creation of a flask api.
